

Well, I guess its time I pull another cup of coffee out and get myself back down to business. This has been such an intense time for all of us; my life has been changing in subtle yet dramatic ways. I have been actively changing my consciousness along with other beings on this planet.....12-21-2012 is almost here!

I am happy to announce that Alice Skiff, Mary Strunc, and I have decided to share some of our own thoughts about the significance of this event...I hope you are inspired as I have been. It has been important for me as editor to encourage our ARE NW members to contribute in some new way...maybe even something that one never dreamed of before. Writing has been something that came later in life for me, and certainly not without growing pains. Now, writing has become an extension of my heart and mind. Another way other people here have stepped in the past year, was that everyone in the area team and study groups have taken on new responsibilities. I remember last year at Germaine's New Year's gathering, I was reading something about stepping up into one's authenticity. I think we are and really not at a better time. Cayce was always big on cooperation!

I am hoping everyone becomes as excited about these times and changes that are occurring. Nothing will ever be the same way again.... issues about authority and control are evolving where once again, everyone begins sharing an equal responsibility for the coming new age.

In our area team meetings, we decided to help others who dream up and plan some of their own gatherings. The east siders, the Bellevue study group, have organized a couple events in the last couple months. We also had Francesca Fleming, the medical intuitive from Portland, return for a lecture in Wallingford.

On another big note, Mack van Wyk, has determined that Spring Seabeck is not going away. We are in the process of finalizing some of the final steps to make sure that this popular event is able to return. Our featured guest will be Sidney Kirkpatrick, the writer of “Edgar Cayce, The American Prophet.” He is an entertaining and gifted speaker. This will certainly be good news for the many of us who have made this springtime event a regular part of their lives. Though there remains a lot of work to do, we are happy to see others willing to step up and share some of the responsibilities to make this happen.... god bless!!

We kept an astrology chart order form for those so inclined. It might be something to consider as the New Year is rapidly approaching. If there is one thing I can say about getting an astrology report...each defining moment in our lives has it's own unique energetic signature. Each one is meant to impart a lesson, a growth opportunity, or a way to address some underlying issues.

Marilyn Redmond, someone who I know most of us already know, has recently finished a brief summary of her ideas about the meaning of 2012. I included something she thought might “tickle your fancy!” Blessings Marilyn and not a moment too late!

One last thing, I just got an announcement about Spring Seabeck that David Kralman just sent out! I will be including that down further in this newsletter!

THE ANCIENT SPIRITUALITY OF CREATION

Those of us who follow the Cayce readings have come to understand that our true nature is mind. There are three basic levels or dimensions within the mind while in this three dimensional plane. Most of us can easily recognize two of these distinct states of awareness. Our conscious mind is dominant during our projection into the physical world, while the subconscious mind lies just behind our “waking” awareness. These can be thought of as twin aspects of consciousness. For example, we have all at one time or another awakened with a dream that we wanted to remember, but as we came closer to consciousness we suddenly realized we had completely forgotten it. We remember having dreamed, but not the dream. How is this possible? It is possible because our “outer self,” our daily conscious mind, did not dream the dream. Instead it was an awareness of our subconscious mind. What we call today the subconscious is the inner twin to our outer self, our conscious. We know our inner self, but the veil between our twin selves is so delicate that we do not normally even notice our shifting between the two. Yet the veil is so opaque that we cannot normally see back through once on the other side of it. We need to work to make this veil more transparent and our sensitivities more acute to subtle shifts in consciousness. In this way we can connect our inner self with our outer self toward becoming whole again, as we once were. The Cayce readings tell us this is the goal of humanity -- to know ourselves to BE ourselves and yet ONE with all that is. This type of work was being conducted in the temples of Mu, Atlantis and eventually in the Yucatan at a time when the three dimensional conscious minds of human beings were still fairly recent developments and not so firmly established as they are today.

Spiritual teachings throughout the ages contain this two-part self in curious tales of two siblings or twins. In ancient Egypt we find tales of Osiris and his brother Set, in Mayan culture the legend of two godly brothers against two earthly brothers, in Asian mythology it is Altair and Vega, in the Bible we find Cain and Abel, Jacob and Esau and Jesus tells the parable of two brothers, the prodigal son and his brother. One pursues the world; the other lingers behind, staying close to his original home. We know tales of Rama and Sita from the Hindus who teach that when our soul is created, one and only one twin flame is created just like a mirror, a reflection of everything you are. And when you find your flame you are complete. It is believed that someday every flame will find its twin. All these stories explain the same spiritual truth about humanity. It is important to realize that each of these ancient tales and a multitude of others are all telling the same story. The characters and circumstances might be cultural, but the concepts being taught are the same.

So how does one explain such an infinite and abstract concept as CREATION without using symbolism and allegory? There are no words or three dimensional concepts for such happenings. Once we understand this, we look for the underlying truths behind the ancient stories and gain valuable insights. We can read the creation accounts of any ancient culture and discover a very colorful, fascinating tale with deep truths to help us understand ourselves and our relationship to the Divine. Since much of Western culture has embraced the Mayan calendar stories surrounding the year 2012, we will look at the ages of creation through their eyes by using parts of their stories. But we would be telling the same story no matter what images and symbols we used. As you read, try to think more deeply about the symbolism.

Creation began with our spiritual selves and the whole community of souls descending out of heaven as the life force, the kundalini, the élan vital. When the consciousness or mind and the life force of all these selves descended into the earth, this began the first age, the age of darkness. It is the AGE OF EARTH, in Kabbalah the MANIFEST WORLD OF ACTIONS. The children of God stopped listening to celestial guidance and stopped harmonizing and cooperating and they become like wood. In the Bible it says, “they became stiff necked and stopped listening.” This was a very dark age back during the time before the breaking up of the continents, when the land masses were Mu or Lemuria. According to Cayce it was not an age of incarnation. The people of Mu or Lemuria were like spirits. And in fact the name Lemure or Lemuria comes from a word that has the root meaning “ghost” and that is what these entities were like. The dates for the FIRST AGE are 12-10 million years ago and it lasted for 2 million years; a very long time. This period was a time when the spirits of the children of God were wandering the planet and getting involved here. They stopped listening and got trapped in this place. These “godlings” as the Egyptians named them, all had the gift of free will, but had lost their spiritual purpose. They became selfish, seeking only self-gratification and self-indulgence. Because their natures had become dominantly carnal, the Maya called this the age of the jaguar.

The children of God pushed their way into matter without regard for the consequences. Since there were no humanoid bodies, they pushed into the senses of existing animals and plants. Their thoughts became entangled and eventually their minds became entangled as well. From this very ancient time came our mythological legends of creatures that were part man and part animal. They were semi-human beings with feathers, scales, fur, claws, hooves, and tails. Recall the satyr and faun (human and goat), centaur (human and horse), sphinx (human and lion) and the mermaid (human and fish). Cayce said these creatures were known for their vanity, idleness, lust, drunkenness, and cruelty. Thus a fundamental principle of creation was later taught in all ancient texts including the Bible. Each life form shall give seed to its own kind; dogs produce dogs, fruit trees produce fruit trees, and so on. But the godlings had pushed their minds into these life-forms, creating mixed creatures. In addition to beastly mixtures there were grotesque giants; titans, cyclops, and gigantes (huge beings with the heads of men and the bodies of serpents). Entire forests were enchanted by spirits -- godling minds trapped in tree forms. It is important to understand that these were not so much physical as they were mental. In this ancient time life existed more in energy or thought than in matter. Yet these myths exist in all of the world's societies (including Africa, Asia, India, Persia, the Middle East, the Mediterranean, Europe, Scandinavia, the Americas, and the Pacific) and are considered by each to be sacred.

The savior God comes along and tries to figure a way out. The first age had progressed into a downward spiral. The children of God had become distracted, forgotten who they were and become hopelessly lost. But this age must end. So God merges the celestial waters of the heavens with the terrestrial waters of the earth, all is washed away and the SECOND AGE, the AGE or WORLD OF WATER begins. And of course this is the time of the Biblical Flood. All ancient tales include a time of inundation by water. The Maya called this new age the AGE OF THE FISHLIKE PEOPLE because the godlings had lost their consciousness, blending so completely into the watery world that they were like fish. But to the savior God this was not acceptable. They were to be fully conscious, not lost in one dimension of life.

At this point I remind us that the story is not necessarily literal, but symbolic of the deeper levels of the mind. The story is trying to convey the essence of an event that was only barely physical, yet so important to gaining an understanding of our origins. The water represents a less dense aspect of matter into which the descending godlings moved, as the Creator tried to remind them of their divinity, their true nature. Each soul is to know itself to be itself yet one with the whole – like a drop of water in an ocean. But the children of God did not remember their THRONES, their divinity. Instead they merged so completely with it that they became lost. For all intents and purposes they were like fish in the sea, unaware of the worlds beyond the water.

The savior God noticed that in the vastness of the waters the children cannot see the horizons. They cannot tell from whence they came or where they are going. They've lost their way and they're muddling around. So He creates a firmament in the midst of the water and raises it up so that they can now see where they've been and where they need to go to. And again this coincides with the Biblical writings of how God created a firmament in the midst of the waters and separated the waters from the waters. This is a symbolic description of the dimensions of mind and the need for three dimensional awareness. In the book of Genesis in the Bible this second age is referred to as the second day. It lasted from 12 million years ago to about 50,000 BC.

The Mayans tell the story that the THIRD AGE began with the children of God becoming self-aware. They now realized they were in trouble and couldn't find a way out. They thought they could escape from matter, from form, from three dimensions and go back into multidimensional spirit form. But they were trapped here inside matter. So God made them a perfect physical form for spirit and mind to incarnate in the physical world for a time. These were less dense than physical forms, but were more like EMANATIONS of both the manifest world and the heavens. The Zohar calls this time the WORLD OF EMANATIONS. The Maya called them the blue maize people or blue corn people. They were considered perfect in every way. Across the world from the Yucatan you can see them depicted in the glyphs within the great pyramids of Egypt colored with blue skin just as the South Americans describe them. These highly spiritual beings also became very technologically advanced. This was the age of Atlantis. While their involution into matter continued, it was during this period that the children of God were just beginning to incarnate in the earth as well.

Everything was going fine until jealousies, envy, excesses, self-glorification and self-gratifications started to develop. All the weaknesses of human nature arose. The Maya stories tell us that the blue maize people didn't see so well. Their eyes had become chipped and they didn't see as clearly as they originally had. Earthquakes and meteors began to devastate their lands and this became known to the Mayans as the AGE OF FIRE or FIREY RAIN. It lasted from about 210,000-50,000 BC.

By the end of this age Mu disappears with the first great earthquakes and meteorites crashing into Atlantis. Mu could not survive the discordant energies that were now dominant in the land. In addition to breaking the natural laws of procreation and phylum order, they carelessly played with the forces of the atom and gravity. The huge crystals that powered their civilization became out of sync. Those of you familiar with the Cayce readings will recall this as a time he describes the disharmony became so great that even the Earth, Mother Nature, revolted and began to shake and explode from the discordant vibrations. Mu broke into pieces, into islands. The misapplied, misdirected energies had shaken the very structure of matter itself. Earthquakes, volcanoes, and weather changes transformed the lands. Cosmic meteorites came crashing down from the skies. Many of the contaminated bodies were destroyed in these cataclysms, but those who were attuned foresaw the coming changes and the signs that the end to this era was upon them. Some of the enlightened ones willingly left the carnal life, while others chose to join in a great migration to safer lands.

When the third age ended, it marked the end of ancient times; the involution into matter prior to the evolution up through matter. The souls of the children of God had come out of the celestial into the terrestrial, began incarnating and became trapped in matter. Now they were on their way back.

Although each age ends gradually rather than abruptly, the FOURTH AGE began about 50,000 BC. According to John Van Auken the Mayans called this the AGE OF “EAGLES TO TURKEYS” because in their culture this represents a realization that we were once great eagles flying high in the heavens, but now they were like turkeys that can only fly a little ways and had become trapped in physicality. In this AGE or WORLD OF FORMATIONS, for the first time we really started to incarnate in a strong physical form of matter, relying on AIR to breath. We had become completely physical beings and started the cycle of incarnations, of dying to this world, passing over to the celestial for a time, then returning here again to learn and to grow. According to Cayce this age runs from about 50,000 BC to the date Aug 13, 3114 BC.

On this date the FIFTH AGE officially begins, and formally ends on the winter solstice, Dec 21-22, 2012. This fifth age is the AGE OF CHANGE or the AGE OF MOVEMENT. It is the sum of the first four ages, and their corresponding elements and worlds. Since 3114 BC we have been evolving through repeated incarnations. We have grown to become a sum of our experiences throughout eons of time and our soul lessons have progressed to a new level as we move into a new age. The veil has begun to lift and we have begun to awaken spiritually.

As most of you know, on December 21, 2012, we celebrate a rare celestial event that only occurs every 25,800 years. This is the time it takes our Sun to pass through all twelve signs of the zodiac, which of course are actually star constellations. From our vantage point, the sun will be positioned directly between the Earth and the very center of the Milky Way Galaxy. At one time we thought this was the end of the Mayan calendar and we looked to other cultures for future ages. But in February of 2010 the workshop of the Mayan calendar maker was found and depictions of the last two ages of creation discovered there. It was the archeological find of the century. These last two ages are much shorter than previous ages and happen rather quickly.

The new age we will be entering this year is the SIXTH AGE, the AGE OF THE SPIRIT OF LIVING THINGS. This will be a great age and very important to our spiritual growth as more of humanity continues to awaken. In this sixth age our five physical senses birth our sixth sense. We grow into a higher, less dense vibration and become aware of the life force that flows around and through all that is. It is in this age we begin to use our sixth sense to see through the veil as easily as we have used our five physical senses. In this age humanity enters full spiritual awareness.

Ancient mystics from every cultural tradition of the world all honor the four elements as having birthed creation at the beginning of the world. As the galactic alignment draws near, the wisdom of the ancients is revealed through these Four Roots or Elements of Transformation into Spirit – EARTH, WATER, FIRE, AIR -- that correlate with the first four ages of worlds –

ACTIONS, THRONES, EMANATIONS, FORMATIONS -- and have led us through this FIFTH AGE OF CHANGE and into the SIXTH AGE OF THE SPIRIT OF LIVING THINGS and our SIXTH SENSE. The sum of these five ages has heightened our spiritual awareness and continues to grow us toward our complete transformation.

The SEVENTH AGE will be the final age of the children of God in the realm of matter, in three dimensions. We will awaken into the oneness of spirit, the celestial life, the universal consciousness and the realm of the infinite where we have been all along. This age is called the AGE or PLACE OF MELDING INTO ONE. Our interpretation of the ancient timeline prophecy of the Great Pyramid of Egypt places the end of this age around 2038 and represents our transformation into wholeness. We will now have connected our inner and outer selves with the whole and know ourselves to BE ourselves and yet ONE with all that is.

by

Mary Strunc

I went on-line and asked, “What did Edgar Cayce have to say about 2012?”

According to the ARE Edgar Cayce readings, he does not mention 2012. I knew this but there was some pertinent information from Kevin J. Todeschi, the Executive Director and CEO of ARE.

I am paraphrasing what he said but you can go online and check this information out in the full format. Paraphrasing this, the info was stated as: The readings share some information about our progression into the Aquarian Age and the transition between ages. Three items will happen but not all of us may be aware of what is happening. The three items are 1.) Purity, 2.) Globalization of understanding that we are responsible for each other, and 3.) Spiritual consciousness will be developed so that we may communicate with the Divine.

Personally I have heard at a conference a couple of years ago that the Mayans had several calendars and this current calendar ends on December 22, 2012. Yes, there will be unrest in the world (Egypt, Syria, etc.) as stated and some of that we have seen this past year. I also heard that the next Mayan calendar states there will be a more peaceful time and more feminine energy (more females in leadership positions) available.

We need to remember most of all to be kind to others and ourselves.

Have a great year!

Quantum Healing and...Me

by

Gordon Yumibe

I want to express a new ideal that is gaining traction recently, though the word, quantum, is not new, especially in a new understanding of physics. I am not a physicist and don't pretend to know anything about it except that it involves different levels of energy. I have been personally involved with healing for over a decade. In that short ten years I have created a healing space that is able to bridge the different dimensional spaces that for the most part, have remained hidden within us all. It started with me having no other choice except to reach out into some of these inner/outer dimensions because of my own wounded Chironic character. Chiron was a well-known and well-respected centaur that replaced Prometheus's nightly suffering by trading places with him. Chiron is now known as the "wounded healer..." The famous lesson that can be taken away is that Chiron started healing others to lesson his own mortal pain. I too experienced the nightly episodes of my own wounded character, which slowly transcended into this "new" healing modality I wish to speak of.

As we all move towards the end of the Mayan character, our levels of awareness and consciousness are also transcending the old, outmoded ways of thinking and being. We are slowly making our ways back into our rightful sphere of influence and stature as "cosmic citizens..." We are becoming light and love...beings that are gradually navigating their way into another dimensional framework. The fourth dimension is a mental sphere where the collective unconsciousness/consciousness resides. The fifth dimension is the emotional centered heart consciousness. We are also moving into another age, the Aquarian age, and cosmologically, we are at the end of a greater sidereal year of 26,000 years. Our planet earth is now once again aligned back with the center of our Milky Way. As cosmic citizens, not only our earth is undergoing tremendous transformation, but we as individuals are too. There are changes that are coming that not only involve our role as earthly inhabitants. We are rapidly approaching an era of becoming inter-dimensional and also inter-galactic as well. What I mean is that there will be a time where we all can learn to transcend the normal limitations involved living only within a 3-dimensional world...we are also regaining an awareness of the other star systems helping us make this leap. Edgar Cayce said there were eight dimensions. I know it might be a stretch for most of us, but I recently read and experienced the Hathors, who are able to live in a higher state of pure consciousness in what they described as the ten, eleventh, and twelfth dimensional framework...the twelfth one was described as giving up one's personal identity.

So what does this have to do with quantum...and inner healing? I have, for a long time, have been living in an intra-dimensional state that Cayce said was "becoming one with the Creative Force..." I can see into these inner dimensions at different times and have had, though somewhat briefly, experienced all these different dimensions. If the symbol of the "water bearer" is an accurate depiction of the Aquarian Age...there is an ocean of light and love that is being actively "down loaded" into our human operating systems. Many of our worn-out thought processes are being released. This is where I, and many others, have come up with using the word "quantum" to describe all the changes these energies have been having not only with us but Gaia, our Mother earth, our planet, as well. We are literally "shifting" the energetics of our planet, Earth; including ourselves as well. This is what, I feel, is the real meaning of 2012.

The other side is what Cayce would call the "purgation" of the soul so we can transform and transcend into a higher dimensional light frequency...so we can lose many of these fear-based and controlling lower energy thought patterns and become Love, our true heritage and home.

It's has been said that our worst experiences have been given to all of us as a teaching tool to help us all learn who we truly are. Cayce calls this "long suffering." There are many multi-dimensional facets that are part of this inner healing modality. One of the bigger ones is what is being asked of all of us to do. We are all being asked, with courage, to begin re-experiencing these all these inner wounds again, to not only relive them, but to see them from another higher dimensional framework. There is nothing in our human consciousness or inner sorrow so deep, that these higher aspects of love can't redeem. In doing this, we begin to see and learn something about our own inner, true divine character. As we see the love in ourselves to forgive and release these sometimes horrible, life-altering wounds; we also begin to find our own inner capacity to free ourselves and love more openly and freely once again. It helps us to redeem our chosen life patterns and brings us more fully into this new age, where Love and Light will stand once again by our side.

Newest Book Release...

The Real Meaning of 2012:

A New Paradigm Bringing Heaven to Earth

By Marilyn Redmond

The time was foretold. The shift of leaving our fear-based lives and moving into grace and love is here. We can release our old dense energy of anxiety and worry perpetuated from fear-driven messages in all parts of our lives. Moving into the oneness of a loving reality is occurring daily to end the ego's fear dominated society of duality.

What People are Saying About Marilyn and Her Work!

This little book is priceless. I found it to be one of the most valuable works I have ever read. I felt Marilyn Redmond speaking from her heart to mine about things she must have experienced because her book has "the ring of truth" which makes reading it is like listening to a wise friend tell you things you've been searching for all your life. I recommend that everyone who wants to live a more loving and honest life read this book, not just once, but really study it and as far as possible, commit it to memory and use it to begin living at a higher level.

Lachlan Mitchell, Coexisting Disorder Coordinator, Bathurst Community Corrections Service, Australia

Brilliant, profound, and to the point. This little book is a classic and will be read long after she is gone. I love how she writes.

Linda Schiller-Hanna, Founder, Natural Psychic School of Metaphysics, Founder, Angel Love Healing Center

Available Now on Kindle ~ $4.95!
